Prologue

Epilogue

Prologue

I pray you all give your audience and hear this matter with reverence

By figure a moral play.

The "Aeronaut and Everystudent" called it is,

That of our youth and school days show

How study is wondrous precious

But the enjoyment of it is more gracious

And sweet to bear away.

The story saith: Student, in the beginning look well, and take good heed of your school days' ending for there your youth ends and life in real begins. Search you for a talisman and when found cherish it that it may do you well. Keep you all alert for many shall you meet and converse with and among them shall you find your talisman.

Episode 1--In which Everystudent meets Master Senior, Jester Junior, Surf Sophomore, and the Sixty-one Headed Dragon.

MASTER SENIOR

Everystudent (hautily)

Ho, Master Senior, would'st favor me with thy sacred attention.

Master Senior

Hist, knave, thou temptest fate, for, by the Sacred Styx, thou art addressing thy over-lord, Master Senior.

Everystudent

What is that to one such as I. I am who I am, and the talisman lies nearly in mine hand. But enough of this! Where lies the lair of the Sixty-one Headed Dragon?

Master Senior

Oh. thou fool, thou loon! Go on, until the rays of yon golden sun surround thy form with a haze of glory, and on thy left, as thou gazest toward the place from which Apollo, driver of the sun-chariot, springs, in the dark of Faculty Forest lies the lair of the Dragon! Go, thou varlet, and may God have mercy on thy soul, for the Dragon will have none, nor will I.

Everystudent

I go, and when I return, by the Sacred Styx, the golden teeth of the Dragon hang from my belt, and in my hand will lie the talisman.

Master Senior

(Watching him as he goes down the way.) There goes a fool, and a man!

FRIAR ENLIGHTMENT

Everystudent

'Tis my learned friend, Friar Enlightment, that I encounter.

Friar Enlightment

Aha, hail there sweet bringer of joy!

Everystudent

Same to you. But where are you going?

Friar Enlightment

As Plato has said, "He who has knowledge, seeketh more," and I am in search of more wisdom.

Everystudent

It seems to me that by increasing your knowledge you stunt your physical growth.

Friar Enlightment

No, Everystudent, for "My joy is my work and my work, my joy."

Everystudent

To keep from the castle of strife, let us change the subject. How is everyone in your abbey?

Friar Enlightment

My two wards, Francis and Carl, have become ill, and I have forbidden them to play with Slothful and Ignorance; but to play with Paul and Dwight instead.

Everystudent

That's good. But let's go over to the abbey where you can pursue your studies.

MASTER BRAWN

Everystudent

Gee! Aeronaut! Look at those husky fellows playing football. They certainly look as if they were having a good time. (Sighs.) I wonder if I could ever be one of them?

Master Brawn

(From behind Everystudent)

And why not? All it requires is hard work, for I set a fast pace for my pupils.

Everystudent

What would I have to do to become one of your pupils, Master Brawn?

Master Brawn

In the first place, you must come out for all of my activities. Then you have to work as hard as you can. Maybe you won't make any of my teams in your Sophomore or Junior year, but it is highly probable that you will in your Senior year, if you stick to the job. All of those boys that you see on the field now have done that very thing.

Everystudent

Oh, Aeronaut, this is one of the best things I have come upon during my adventures through South.

MISTRESS CONSIDERATION

Mistress Consideration

(Weeping.) Oh, Everystudent, has everyone deserted me? I've looked and looked, but I can't find any of my old friends. Oh where have they gone?

Everystudent

Mistress Consideration, weep not! You have many friends who will always remain with you. Don't you remember Dorothy and Louise? You can depend on their staying with you till the end.

Mistress Consideration

But where are they? I've looked everywhere, but I can't find any of my friends. Please tell me exactly where to look for those you mentioned. I just must see them. Do you know any others who are my friends?

Everystudent

Have you forgotten those faithful ones, Helen and Eleanor? Oh, Mistress Consideration, your friends are many; if you just watch closely, you can't miss them. Don't you always count on me as one of your friends?

Mistress Consideration

Alas, Everystudent, I fear I do not always. Sometimes I think you have forgotten me entirely, but other times, you seem to have the utmost respect for me.

Everystudent

It is time I'm on my way to see Mabel and Katherine. Would you like to come with me? Without a doubt, they will be able to tell you where you can find more of your friends.

ARTIST DEFT-BRUSH

Everystudent
Just as I thought, Artist Deft-Brush is daubing again.

Artist Deft-Brush
Hello, Everystudent. I'm not wasting this canvas; I'm drawing a picture of Washington Park lake.

Everystudent
I beg your pardon. (Stands aside and looks.) It does look somewhat like it.

Artist Deft-Brush
Should you care to see some other pictures? There are several notebooks on that table.

Everystudent
Thanks, I'd like to. (Picks up a notebook.) Say these pictures of fashions are good. You ought to be a designer. Those dresses, hats, and gloves are great.

Artist Deft-Brush
Then you like them much better than the lake?

Everystudent
These comic pictures of school days are fine. I'll bet this is one of Edd's teacher comics.

Artist Deft-Brush
You are right. How do you like Priscilla's drawings?

Everystudent
I never cared much for designs, but these are fascinating. You ought to illustrate the annual.

Artist Deft-Brush
We always do; but now I must finish my scene. Come back when it is finished.

Sir Standby

Guess. I'm sure you've heard of me.

Everystudent

I can't guess, but you surely are a good standby.

Sir Standby

You guessed it.

Everystudent

You don't mean that your name is—

Sir Standby

Yes, that's just it. Sir Standby, they call me.

Everystudent

What a fine name, and I am sure you live up to it. If you hadn't stood by me tonight, I'm sure I don't know what I should have done. Come, I'll take you home now.

Everystudent

Oh, don't take me so seriously. Everyone, I believe, realizes how you feel. And as long as you can enjoy yourself that way—go ahead. You seem to put pep into the rallies and make the cheers resound and echo at the games.

Bantam Master of Noise

Oh, thank you! I am glad you understand me. Do I have fun! Of course boys will be boys, so that accounts for Don and Johnny always making such a racket.

I'm Nick Evil-doer, but don't get so peeved. I know you are a good pal of Emmett's, and does he study? Ha, ha! Oh! listen.

To your brains think. He, he! I'm laughing.

Watch out, you might hurt yourself.

Nick Evil-doer
Peeved again? George never gets peeved, he always turns the tables on the other fellow.

SQUIRE DO-A-LOT

Squire Do-a-lot

Come, Everystudent, talk to me while I finish this.

Everystudent

For a few minutes. You are always doing something. What is it this time?

Squire Do-a-lot

I'm just helping Helen and Frances make some posters.

Everystudent

But aren't you busy enough yourself without doing anything for them?

Squire Do-a-lot

I always have time to do something for somebody.

Everystudent

But don't you get tired of always having something to do and never having any time to loaf.

Squire Do-a-lot

You never see John and Louis dozing in the sun. They are always busy and yet they are happy and never seem tired.

Everystudent

They go to parties beside working.

Squire Do-a-lot

Certainly, but while they are there they are trying to make things pleasant.

Everystudent

I must be leaving now. Maybe you are right, but I think I want some time just to loaf.

Everystudent

I really don't mean to be impertinent, but what will you do there?

Knave Jump-a-head

I do? Ha, ha! Why I'll nominate Alfred or Dixie Lee for the presidency.

Everystudent

Pretty tricky, aren't you?

Knave Jump-a-head

Say, what do you mean? Just because they're friends of mine is no sign they don't have a lot of initiative of their own. Who'd deny that Ruth is a peppy girl?

Everystudent

Yes, that's right too. Well, according to that, I suppose you run around with Clara.

Knave Jump-a-head

Right you are. Now you know what kind of friends I have. Want to come to club meeting?

TRUE FRIEND

Everystudent

I am lonesome. All I do is study and work.

True Friend

What in the world is wrong? Come with me and you shall not be lonesome.

Everystudent

You can not help me. I am very busy. Who are you anyway?

True Friend

I am True Friend. You know, "a friend, in need, is a friend indeed and a true one."

Everystudent

I need just such a friend, now, but where can I find such? They don't grow on inkwells.

True Friend

My recipe is to be a friend. David and Jack have had good results with it. If you want first-hand facts ask Evelyn and Olive. They both are true friends.

Everystudent

I believe I shall. Things already look brighter.

True Friend

You are not busy now?

Everystudent

Er—no.

DAMSEL OF THE SILVER MOON

(Damsel of the Silver Moon sits under a blossoming tree humming tunes of romance.)

Everystudent
(Appears with arms full of books.) Ah-h-h! And who are you, my fair maiden?

Damsel of the Silver Moon
Good evening, Sir. I am Damsel of the Silver Moon.

Everystudent
And pray, what are you doing out here?

Damsel of the Silver Moon
Do you ask me? Why, I'm riding with my lover on a powerful white horse to his castle in a far away country. Ah-h, I can hear him whisper sweet words in my ear as we fly through the silvery clouds. And low over——.

Everystudent
Wait a minute! Just how do you expect to get your assignments?

Damsel of the Silver Moon
Ah, I could not live unless I could sit in the silvery moonlight and dream of romance. Mmmmm—he is taking me in his strong arms and is crushing me to——.

Everystudent
Hold on! Don't go into that again. You had better come in and get your English.

Damsel of the Silver Moon
Oh, what does school matter when the moon shines?

Squire Climber.

Everystudent
May I speak with you?

Squire Climber
I can't come down, but we can talk on this landing.
(Everystudent at last reaches Squire Climber.)

Squire Climber
Pray, what may I tell you?

Everystudent
Where do you find ambition to go on and on?

Squire Climber
Do not look so worried. It is simple—once you have an aim clearly in view.

Everystudent
I have many aims, but I never stick to them.

Squire Climber
It is best to have one exalted aim.

Everystudent
So that is it? I have wondered why Ellwood took everything so seriously.

Squire Climber
Have you noticed that Raymond must have some very high ambitions? Think of Tom and Connor.

Everystudent
Ah! Now I understand.

LADY AGREEABLE

Lady Agreeable

Really, Everystudent, you must come with me now. You've seen those pupils that are outstanding for their brilliance, their wit and their athletic ability. Now you must see those who make this building a better and more pleasant place in which to go to school.

Everystudent

And, pray, who are these people? I'll admit you have my curiosity aroused.

Lady Agreeable

They're the people who are agreeable and pleasant, and believe me, they're a fine bunch.

Everystudent

What do they do? Just go around all day agreeing with everyone about everything?

Lady Agreeable

Well, I should say not, but they certainly don't go around the halls picking a fight with everyone.

Everystudent

I'm beginning to savvy.

Lady Agreeable

Well, I should hope so. They're just some more of the many good sports in South. Come on, let's go!

Forget-me-not

Everystudent

It is not my wish to leave, but, with all your followers, surely, you will not miss me. Bruce and Mona are loyal friends. I feel sure they will never desert you.

Forget-me-not

'Tis true, but I cannot see why you need to leave now.

Everystudent

I am only half through my search. I should like to stay but there is my talisman; so I have no more time to spend with you.

Forget-me-not

Since you cannot be persuaded to linger with me, I shall leave you, for I must call upon Pearl and Eleanor. Farewell!

WENCH STURDINESS

Everystudent

And what about the athletic girls at South, Wench Sturdiness?

Wench Sturdiness

Oh, we have many. Surely you've heard of the wonderful times that South's girls have in the Gym.

Everystudent

Yes, I have, but which of the Senior girls make the games possible?

Wench Sturdiness

There are many of them. Edna, June, and Alice are good examples.

Everystudent

And what is the especial hobby of these girls?

Wench Sturdiness

Anything for a good time. It makes no difference if it's basketball or football.

Everystudent

I suppose they are good at either of them?

Wench Sturdiness

Yes, very; I've heard that Kay and Joy like nothing so much as to try to beat the Juniors or Sophomores in anything.

Everystudent

You must be proud of your Senior athletic girls.

SQUIRE LOOK-AHEAD

Everystudent

How I wish I were talking with Lady Play-all-day. I surely enjoyed her company.

Squire Look-Ahead

Ah, my good man, I overheard your last wish. What charm does the past hold for you? Think of the rosy future before us. Here, look! (Draws binoculars from pocket and gives them to Everystudent. A smile displaces Everystudent's frown.)

Everystudent

What is that beautiful spectrum, that glowing rainbow I see?

Squire Look-Ahead

That is the future; not as you were recently, looking at it, but through the binoculars of hope.

Everystudent

Oh, Squire, give me a pair!

Squire Look-Ahead

(Slowly.) No, Everystudent, I can't do that. (Brightening.) But I know what to do. Go to visit Burton or Carroll. I gave them no binoculars but they have made their own bright horizon.

Everystudent

The future already looks brighter. Au revoir, Squire.

JESTER JUNIOR

Everystudent

Sire, would you tell me this, the thing I have mulled over since I have entered school. What have you, as a Junior, gained from your training in school?

Jester Junior

Everystudent, you ask that which I do not know, and have sought for these many years; but, herein lies the mystery of life, for, oh Everystudent, I have learned to laugh.

Everystudent

Jester Junior, you puzzle me. You answer my question with a riddle, a saying that would tax the brain of the Dragon!

Jester Junior

I still say I have learned to laugh! Laugh at worry, laugh at self, and even laugh when weeping underlies mirth.

Everystudent

I begin to understand, vaguely, what you are speaking of. I have found laughter and cynicism an effectual mask, preventing a too free expression of true feeling, and a great help in maintaining the proper reserve.

Jester Junior

Everystudent, beware. Laughter is good, a cleanser of mental fog, and a stimulant to thought; but cynicism, this ultra-modern set view of life and people, is of harm. It warps your perception, your balance, until you even sneer at your own actions and the actions of others who would help you, and you snarl at the amicable advances of your fellows. Beware, Everystudent!

STICK TO-A-TASK

Everystudent

For what reason do I sit here studying my American History? Why didn't I go with that gang who called here ten minutes ago? I'll call up the girl friend and go for a ride.

Stick To-a-task

(Appearing in doorway.) My boy, consider yourself. You cannot go tonight, for that history quiz tomorrow demands preparation.

Everystudent

What of that? I'm living my life. I shall go, and you can't stop me.

Stick To-a-task

Very well, but I dare say you will regret this time, when the grades are given out.

Everystudent

Good advice, but you have the wrong number, especially since Mother and Dad aren't home.

Stick To-a-task

More reason for you to study, for then you can say temptation has no hold on you.

Everystudent

Bosh! Begone. (Grasps phone.) Operator, give me Central 8367.

IN-IT-ALL

In-it-all

Now I've done it! Why did I ever open that box? How was I to know that it contained the hornets for Mr. Morris' biology classes. I know what I'll do, I'll put a charm in their sting. Hokus! Pokus! Every hornets' sting shall cause the stung one to become ambitious and active.

Everystudent

Oh, my nose! That hurts! Where in the world did those hornets come from? I bet Wilfrid or Bob has something to do with thus.

In-it-all

I am sorry, but I'm responsible.

Everystudent

You aren't as sorry as I am. Listen to the howls; evidently they have found other victims.

In-it-all

My heavens, look at the bumps on Jamie and Dorothy. Now there will be something doing at school.

Everystudent

Why is everyone rushing around? They act as if the bee of ambition had stung them.

NEVER-A-CARE

(Singing.)

Never-a-care

What does it matter
If my work's not done?
If I'm late to school,
What does it matter?

Good day. Did you notice how beautiful it is this morning?

Everystudent

Indeed, it is beautiful. Why aren't you in school?

Never-a-care

Such a fine day as this should not be wasted. Won't you linger with me?

Everystudent

I am sorry. Come, walk to the door with me. I hear you went to a dance last night. Don't you have exams today?

Never-a-care

How careless of me to forget, but the dance was great.

Everystudent

How do you get by with the little studying you do?

Never-a-care

Sometimes I don't. Nothing like sticking to a task.

Everystudent

I wonder if you understand that. Well, here we are. I must go in.

Never-a-care

There are Miss Schroder and Mr. Curtis standing in the door now. I'm going.

MAID TACTFULNESS

Maid Tactfulness

Come, Everystudent, you can't sit out every dance. Won't you dance with me?

Everystudent

I can't dance; and no one will help me learn, I'm so clumsy.

Maid Tactfulness

Oh, I'd like to dance with you.

Everystudent

I'm so sorry that I stepped on your toes. I'll never learn! Let's sit down again.

Maid Tactfulness

That didn't hurt. Come let's try again.

Everystudent

I wish I had your art of making everyone feel as though he has said and done the right thing.

Maid Tactfulness

That's not hard. There is no use in hurting people's feelings. You can find pleasant things to talk about.

Everystudent

But you are such an exceptional person. Florence and La Vora remind me of you.

Maid Tactfulness

Tactfulness is my profession. Helen and Louise are also my apprentices.

Everystudent

I'm tired. Let's sit here now and watch them dance.

IN-IT-AND-OUT-AGAIN

In-It-and-Out-Again

Hello, Everystudent. Why you look as if you had lost your last friend.

Everystudent

Well, In-It-and-Out-Again, I don't like to work so hard. It takes so much time to keep up with these brilliant students. I don't seem to have such a good time at it as they do.

In-It-and-Out-Again

Why, old man, don't look like that. Look at William; he always has good times, and yet he has good grades. Look at Catherine, Gladys May, and Orville; they are always in for all the fun and even the serious work that is to be accomplished.

Everystudent

I guess you are right. They do seem to be in everything good too. I think I shall try to do like these other people and not be so glum after this. You have made me happy and I shall continue to be happy. Goodbye, In-It-and-Out-Again.

PRIORESS WISDOM

Everystudent

Hello. What news today?

Prioress Wisdom

Tidings of great mirth I proclaim. Faith has conquered the realm of an algebra equation, Clara reports a victory over the French Revolution, and Margaret denounces Caesar like a true Gaul.

Everystudent

Wonderful! You are doing splendid work, Prioress Wisdom.

Prioress Wisdom

Thanks. What interrogation conveys you here, Everystudent?

Everystudent

You want to know why I came?

Prioress Wisdom

Your intelligence will procure you many laurels.

Everystudent

Forget the laurels, and please tell me what is the most valuable talisman I could possibly find.

Prioress Wisdom

Unbounded knowledge, Everystudent. Resemble the perambulating encyclopedia if you will.

Everystudent

But I would have to spend endless hours studying. Then I would have no time for my friends.

Prioress Wisdom

Very well, consult your own deliberations.

CHURL STRONG-ARM

Churl Strong-arm
Sock him! Aw come on. (Everystudent enters.) Don't weaken! That's the way. Well, that finished the fight. Hello, Everystudent. How did you like the fight? Glenn and John are pretty good. Eh?

Everystudent
Yes, but that looks rough.

Churl Strong-arm
That's the fun of it, but no one will get hurt. Take football, basketball, and other sports. They're rough, but they are fun.

Everystudent
How about the Juniors in sports?

Churl Strong-arm
They'll have real worth next year. Jay was a good halfback in football last year. There is a good guard in Maurice. There are Norman, Myron, and Bill who made good in baseball. Besides there are some other prospects. Sports don't hurt the fellows, for Peter and Edwin are good boxers, and they still live.

Everystudent
I don't agree. How can you keep from getting hurt in boxing.

Churl Strong-arm
It's impossible, just hit me and see.

Everystudent
Shall I really poke you?

Churl Strong-arm
Sure, go ahead.
(Everystudent hits him in the eye.)
Ow-w! Oh-h-h!

Everystudent
What's the matter?

Churl Strong-arm
That's not fair; it isn't allowed.

Everystudent
Oh, I'm sorry, I didn't know the regulations. My error.

MERRY LAUGHTER

Everystudent
What are you laughing at? You are supposed to be quiet in assembly.

Merry Laughter
Yes, I know, but this is too funny.

Everystudent
Sh! You'll have to leave if you aren't careful.

Merry Laughter
Oh, I can't help it! Step hen, be rooster. Oh-ho.

Everystudent
Step hen Ho-ho! And Hen-ri-etta. That's rich.

Merry Laughter
I thought you were the one who wanted quiet.

Everystudent
Doesn't Robert make a wonderful Stephen?

Merry Laughter
Yes, and Marjory is a typical Henrietta.

Everystudent
Sh! Mr. Curtis is watching us.

Merry Laughter
Ha, ha! He's Catherine's supressed desire.

Everystudent
Now you've done it; here comes Mr. Curtis.

MASTER FAIRPLAY

Everystudent

Hey, Master Fairplay. Where are you going?

Master Fairplay

Oh, hello, Everystudent. I'm going over to watch the races. Come on along. John and Dick are going along with me.

Everystudent

I guess I will.

Master Fairplay

Oh, there are the runners now. We are just in time.

Everystudent

Oh look, Master Fairplay. That runner tripped one of his opponents. The cheat!

Master Fairplay

Oh, oh. We'll make short work of him. Here's Max and Lynn. Come on fellows. Let's toss him in the ditch. (In he goes.)

Cheater

Help! C'mon. Have a heart.

Master Fairplay

Why didn't you have a heart for your opponent? We'll wait until you cool off. You sure are all wet.

LADY DREAMY EYES

Lady Dreamy Eyes

(Entering.) What — Everystudent—alone?
(Stupefied, he tries to escape, then reacts gallantly.)

Everystudent

Er-a-no. I mean yes. Will you be seated?

Lady Dreamy Eyes

Thank you. There's room for two here.

Everystudent

(Sitting.) A nice night isn't it?

Lady Dreamy Eyes

Oh, I was so cold until I saw you; but now the night seems warmer, and the moon brighter. See, that bright star overhead is Venus, the star of love.

Everystudent

I think I'll be going now.

Lady Dreamy Eyes

Leave me not. I fear the dark shadows.

Everystudent

(Bravely.) I'll protect you.

Lady Dreamy Eyes

Oh! Who's coming?

Everystudent

Fear not, I'm here. (Edna and Vivian stroll by absorbed.)

Lady Dreamy Eyes

Oh, look at Faye and Dorothy on that bench. But now I must go. Bye, Everystudent.

SIR WILLING-TO-DO

Everystudent

What are you doing around here? Everywhere I turn, I run into you or someone that looks just like you. Don't say you're trying to be useful; that's what they all say.

Sir Willing-to-do

But that's what I'm doing here. I'm the person that is willing to help with anything, anytime or place.

Everystudent

So that's your occupation. I suppose it makes life very interesting always to be willing to do something.

Sir Willing-to-do

Yes, it does, but I would appreciate it if you wouldn't be so sarcastic. You are in a rather disagreeable mood today, aren't you?

Everystudent

I suppose so, but this search for the talisman is no easy job. Seriously though, is there a thrill in always being willing?

Sir Willing-to-do

There certainly is. Recently I agreed to accommodate a friend by taking a certain girl to a dance, whom I was assured I wouldn't like. Well, she turned out to be the girl of my dreams.

Everystudent

I guess I am convinced. Come on, tell me about yourself.

Surf Soph-omore

Everystudent (Meets Surf Sophomore in hall.)
Hello, what are you doing out in the hall?

Surf Sophomore
I'm going to wash the windows in the girls' cadet room and in the janitors' gym. Master Senior said the Dragon is waiting for me.

Everystudent
Oh, I see.

Surf Sophomore
Jester Junior said I had to learn to count in order to get into Miss Gardiner's geometry class, and that I must count all of the seniors who have senioritis. Then, too, I had to purchase reserved seats in the auditorium, in the lunch-room, and even in my classrooms.

Everystudent
That's a Sophomore's life, but tell me have you found your talisman?

Surf Sophomore
My what?

Everystudent
Your talisman! What is your purpose in coming to high school?

Surf Sophomore
Oh, I came because you must go to high school before you can go to college.

Everystudent
So that's the reason is it? Didn't you want to make any new friends, or to learn how to earn your living?

Surf Sophomore
My old friends suit me. I have heard though that the people out here have good times. I'm going to get my name in the society column.

Everystudent
So that is the height of your ambition. Didn't you know that we have some good scholars and wonderful leaders here?

Surf Sophomore
No, I never thought of them. Well, I'm going to study hard and have a good time, too.

Everystudent
I believe you will, and I hope you find your talisman.

SIXTY-ONE HEADED DRAGON

Everystudent

I hear a noise as though Zeus approached; hideous groans and horrible cries break upon my ears. Oh, a terrible dragon is rushing upon me! His scales glitter in the flame from his nostrils, and I am stifled by the smoke that rolls in great clouds from his mouth. If one of those heads doesn't eat me, the tail will lash me to death. What has happened, Aeronaut?

Aeronaut

The sixty-one headed dragon waged a bloody battle here, the worst ever beheld. The sky was white with the dragon's deadliest weapons, report cards; the ground was red with text books; pens and pencils whizzed through the air, but to no avail.

Everystudent

But where has the dragon gone?

Aeronaut

Off to his lair, called Teacher's Lair, in the dark Faculty Forest. But he will not remain there long. When he regains strength, he will return spreading flunking notices and examinations.

Everystudent

Isn't there any way to escape?

Aeronaut

Yes. After three years of faithful fighting, the dragon will release his victims. The forces are rallying now, and I must attend. Good luck!

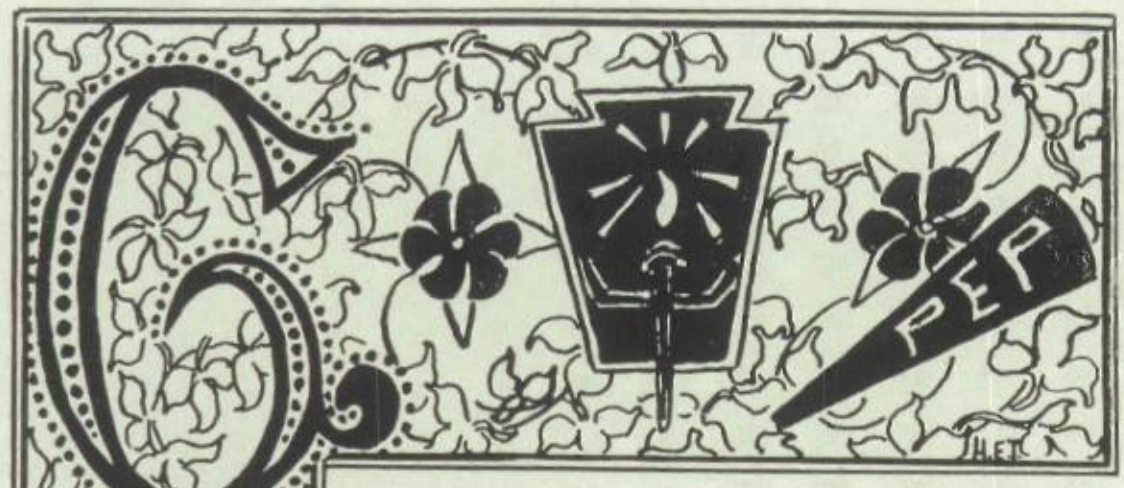
Episode 2--In which Everystudent meets the masters of the guilds.



GUILD MASTER

Guild Master (Singing)
Come, loyal South Side,
South Side will win.
Fight to the finish,
Never give in.

Everystudent
I didn't know you sang, Guild Master.

Guild Master
I don't but I try. It helps brighten the day for the singer if not the listener. I hope I didn't give you that depressed look by singing.

Everystudent
Oh, no, I was just getting ready to tell you how glad I am to see you for perhaps you can explain—.

Guild Master
I am the wrong party for that; I organize things and explain the reason afterwards.

Everystudent
I thought you'd know something about the talisman. Does it have any relation to your reason for organizing these clubs?

Guild Master
Easy! The clubs promote better feeling among the students, and give them a chance to show their leadership, and to ride their hobbies.

Everystudent
Then the clubs have some relation to the talisman.

Guild Master
Yes, I never thought of the relation before. What more could a student desire than friends, amusements, leadership, and knowledge?

Everystudent
Well, those are some of the important things. But what is the advantage of being a guild member?

Guild Master
I thought everyone knew that! The Patriots prepare students to be thinking citizens. Then the National Honor Society stimulates service and leadership on the part of the members of that guild. The Student Council affords practical experience in legislation and government. The French Club furnishes an opportunity to converse in French and to learn more about French cities and customs. On the whole, guilds promote a better understanding of human nature and more efficient ways of doing things as well as a little recreation.

Everystudent
Whew! Lead me to this Guild Hall; I want to see these guilds.

ACADEMY TESTS ARE PASSED BY PAUL MCCOMBS

Congressman Eaton Sends Letter of Congratulation to Successful Rebel Student

Washington, D. C.,
March 15, 1926.

Paul McCombs,
957 North Emerson,

Congratulations, keep it up and some day you will be an admiral.

Wm. R. Eaton, M. C.

Above is the telegram Paul McCombs received Thursday from Congressman W. M. Eaton congratulating him on his passing of the entrance examinations to the United States Naval academy.

McComb's official notification has not yet been received, but he will report at Annapolis sometime after the middle of June.

A summer of intensive training in the school of the sailor awaits him. Will follow the stiff academic year and then his first midshipman's cruise to the far places of the world.

If possible Paul will leave Denver two weeks early so that he may visit various points in the East. On this excursion he will stop at New York and hopes to go to West Point to have a look at the Navy's "enemy school." Paul will have the honor of meeting President Hoover and Senator Phipps while he is the guest of Congressman Eaton in Washington.

When his interviewer asked if there was anything else he wished to tell he said, "The last eight months have been the most wonderful of my life and I want to say that anyone can get anything he wants if he goes after it harden ough. I only hope I am successful and I mean to try."

ELABORATE PROGRAM SPONSORED BY CO-EDS FOR THEIR MOTHERS

Dances, a Glee club number and an attractive fashion parade made up the annual Mother's Day program held last Thursday after school in the auditorium.

The presentation was opened with a song by Miss Nelson's Girls' Glee club II. A waltz clog by Miss Goodier's Dancing I class followed. The advanced group presented a light and artistic lantern dance.

A complete display of the clothing made by Miss Axtens' and Mrs. Blanch's clothing classes was of special interest to South mothers. Afternoon dresses, evening gowns, suits, coats, ensembles, and pajamas, all fashioned in the latest styles, made up the display.

As each girl approached wearing her latest "triumph," her name and the kind of material in the garment were announced. The orchestra played throughout the ceremony to add to the effectiveness.

This annual event is under the supervision of the Girls' League. The committee in charge of the program consisted of: Lois Zimmerman, chairman, Beatrice Johnson, Virginia DeMoutin, Lorraine Bramblett, Mary Elizabeth Butler, and Helen Wolf. Ruth Ernst presided.

The reception committee was made up of: Thelma Beggs, Mildred Rooney, Dorothy Stubbs, Ruth Ernst, and Shirley Jones.

Appreciation is also due Mr. Vingston and the printing classes and the stagecraft classes. The stage setting was exceptionally effective.

Aeronaut Is Awarded Second Honor Rating In National Contest

South Rebels Placed High In Division; Beat Many College Publications

Rating highest in the second honor division of the National Scholastic Press association contest at Minneapolis, the Aeronaut landed but a few points out of first division.

The East high Spotlight rated an All-American berth and the North Star placed in the first honor division. The Aeronaut was adjudged ahead of many college and university student publications but barely missed being rated in the first honor division by a slim margin.

For an explanation read the editorial regarding this contest which appears in this issue of the Aeronaut on the editorial page.

GRADUATING SENIORS TOP ARTY AT ELITCH'S

Dancing in Afternoon and Chicken Dinner Will Be Feature of Outing

Dancing in the afternoon, chicken dinner, and a theatre party in the evening for the graduating seniors will be held at Elitch's Gardens May 29, all for the total sum of one and no hundredths dollars.

That tells in part the big idea of the annual senior class day. Sounds good, doesn't it?

All those seniors who are planning to attend the gay frolic will be excused the last three periods of the day at which time they will go to Elitch's.

Mr. Cory has announced that all tickets must be bought by May 27 in order to give the Garden management time to prepare for the large crowd. He also stated that seniors whose work was not up to par the last week of school could not be excused from work here.

LIVELY PLAY GIVEN BY DRAMA STUDENTS

"Pot Boilers" which was presented last Wednesday during assembly by Miss Parker's seventh hour drama class is one of the liveliest plays given on this year and had an interested audience throughout.

The scenes took Mr Kendig's boys two hours to fix and were characteristic of a rehearsal stage. Arthur Brown took the part of Sid, a playwright and proved to be very entertaining. Wouldby was played by John Teets.

Paul Foehl as Mr. Inkwell was hilarious as the villian. Miss Ivory the heroine, was played by Louise Cooper. Josephine Sargent as Mrs. Pencil, put herself over well. David Brainerd played Mr. Ruler and John Rogers enacted Mr. Ivory to complete the well selected cast.

The end of the play was left to the imagination of the students as the playwright who had not finished more than two scenes of it couldn't decide who was to be killed.

Friday, May 23, Correct Date for Senior Play

Friday, May 28, is the date set for the senior play, "The Vulture," to be given in the school auditorium. Last week's paper published the wrong date.

ASTRONOMY HEAD AT DENVER UNIVERSITY ADDRESSES REBELS

Smallness of World Stressed in Talk; Details Regarding Moon Also Discussed

BY DOROTHY LUTZ

"I hope that if you get nothing else from this talk, I can make you see more clearly what a small place man really has in the whole universe," said Dr. Recht, professor of Astronomy at Denver university when he closed his interesting talk on "The Moon" in assembly Friday.

Dr. Recht first showed the positions of the moon as we see them by rotating a ball representing the moon around a light representing the sun. Some of the many facts given about the moon were that it is 240,000 miles from the earth, its mountains are about 22,000 feet high. The gravity on the moon is much less than on the earth as is the weight. A person weighing 150 pounds on the earth would probably tip the scales at about 25 pounds on the moon.

Many pictures were shown of the various observatories and telescopes, of the moon in its different stages and its craters and mountains. Dr. Recht also showed pictures of star groups.

SOUTH HI-Y MEMBERS PLAN GET-TOGETHER PICNIC IN MOUNTAINS

Big things have been happening in the Hi-Y organization near the close of the school year. At the meeting held last Thursday Orville Weller, president, explained the value of the "Service Certificates" that have been awarded and presented the suggested constitution.

The boys who received service certificates were: Cecil Davidson, Jack Bellmyer, Jack Halliburton, Allan Pepper, Bill Falke. They denote the faithful service the members have given to the club.

It was suggested that the club have a get-together in the form of a "weiner fry" or trip to the mountains for all the members who are graduating. May 31 was the date set for the outing.

Other members who were present and took part in the lively discussion were: Carrol Fernaugh, Richard Layton, Allan Pepper, George Adams, William Cockle, Frank McCartney, John Muller, John Christmann, Cecil Davidson, Jack Halliburton, Phillip Woodsmn and Henry Bonnell.

CHEMISTRY SENIORS HAVE BUSY TIME AS EXAMINATION NEARS

BY JEAN SCOTT

"Where were you this morning?"
"In the chem. lab."
"Where were you this noon?"
"In the Chem. lab."
"Where were you this afternoon?"
"In the Chem. lab."

This is a sample of the answers of a number of the Chemistry II students when asked where they disappear during the day. Qualitative analysis has started, so the graduating seniors literally pack their grips and take a long, long trip to the laboratory.

The lab. is a funny place this time of the year. There is no spring fever there. On entering the place, a nauseating odor of gas, synonym of rotten eggs, assails one. The lab. is swarming with black aproned beings looming through the smoke. From one corner float the strains of one of the most popular arts. From another comes un-printable material as someone's wrath breaks loose. Everybody works, all are alive, and everyone is in a hurry. Shouts of mirth go up when pink solutions turn blue, when they are supposed to—groans of despair when they do not.

Ah, but, the bitter must be taken with the sweet, a thorn with the rose, and so on, and to say. Thursday at assembly time the Chem. II students entered that same lab. where so many happy hours had been spent with fear and trembling. The tragic crisis had come at last!

The Iowa State entrance exam.! If this test was flunked it meant possible failure, and passing it would help toward passing the course. The test is given by Mr. Collier to measure the students' chemistry knowledge.

All breathed a sigh of relief when it was over.

They bring you good tidings

STROLLING PLAYER

Everystudent

How restful that music sounds! I didn't realize there was anyone in this busy world anymore who wasn't concerned with just the common things of life. Ah, the source of that sweet music is approaching.
Would you be so kind as to stay and talk with me awhile? How I wish there were more like you who are not always thinking about mere existence.

Strolling Player

Yes, I do too. I am Strolling Player, but nowadays it seems as though one is old-fashioned unless he is Running Player or Speed Jazzer.

Everystudent

You're right, Strolling Player, but what do you regard as the talisman, or the ideal of life? Surely you ought to know what it is.

Strolling Player

Everystudent, he who knows when to rest, and can take time in the bustle of life to think about the worthwhile things, has achieved the talisman. Many have asked me in their search for the talisman, where they could find it, but whenever I told them how they could achieve it, they left discouraged. They had to be constantly on the move.
So when you are tired, refresh your body with stirring strains.

BURGOMAN PIGSKIN

Burgoman Pigskin

Well, football is all over, and I have a lot of memories.

Everystudent

What memories?

Burgoman Pigskin

I remember the Fort Morgan game when Myron's pass to Frank in the last eight minutes resulted in two touchdowns. Remember when Fred made a safety on East, and then Ed made a touchdown. Final score was South 8—East 0. Think of the time when we beat Manual in a sea of mud. Al was so covered with mud he looked as big as Hal or Cliff. George, Loren, Allan and Bert played a great game.

Then the North game was another mud fight. Maurice, Kenneth, and Myron shone that day with their runs, passes, and punts. Herbert played a great game.

They were all good games, but the best one was with Boulder. It was hard on both players and spectators. South made a touchdown in the second quarter—a pass from Myron to Al. This made the score 6-0 in our favor. Frank was a great factor in this touchdown. South held Boulder off till the last thirty seconds when Boulder, after fighting hard, made a touchdown, making the final score 6-6.

We are certainly proud of our team.

BURGOMAN BASKETEER

Everystudent
Sir, thou didst not hold a higher score than thy opponent?

Burgoman Basketeer
I did not, but in sooth, I learned to become a good loser.

Everystudent
But tell me of thy contests.

Burgoman Basketeer
Verily, those games we did win stand out as would lights on the darkened plain. Al played wondrous well, and Hitt, the tall and stalwart basketeer, amazed all in that game in which we triumphed over the Vikings by five points. When we conquered Boulder, Jackson played most brilliantly. Of all thrills, foremost in our memory is the South-East game in the Auditorium.

Everystudent
Friend, how did it affect thee to rush into, and over an Angel, and leave him lying? Was it as thrilling to do as to witness?

Burgoman Basketeer
Everystudent, plowing into an Angel and letting him lie would have been O. K., but the Angels were not to be conquered by Rebels, for the short end of the close score was ours. The season was creditable to the South County, with its record of clean sportsmanship and hard fought games. Always in our minds stand these gallant, courageous boys who struggled through that season, and these true Rebels are Brandow, Jackson Hitt, Bonnema, and Tiernan.

Burgoman Track

Everystudent, why don't you watch the track men go through their practice some night?

Everystudent

I think I will take your suggestion. I'll be out to look things over and to see who is good material for track.

Burgoman Track

I imagine you know what track is in general, but I am going to name the events in case you don't know all of them. There are the different yard dashes and the relays in the running class. In the weights are the javelin and discus throw and the shot put. The jumping events are pole vaulting, which is a very pretty sight, high jumping, and broad jumping.

Everystudent

When do the track meets come?

Burgoman Track

There was a meet March 22 at the city auditorium. There were several triangular meets between the schools, and a city tournament.

Everystudent

Who is your track coach? Where may I see the boys practice?

Burgoman Track

Mr. Miller is coach, and the boys work out nearly every night at the D. U. Stadium.

All right boys, let's play now. Everystudent, you will be first up at bat.

Fair ball! (Everystudent runs to second base then pulls up his stocking.) Hey, you, leave your sock down and run! (He runs to third base leaving his cap at second and both socks down.) Say kid, you're certainly particular. I wish you'd play in a bathing suit.

Everystudent

Well, if you had to play in a baseball suit four sizes too large, you'd lose more than I did. Say, Frannie, trade suits with me. You look like a sewed up oyster!

Burgoman Diamond

Everystudent, come here. It's your turn to bat again.

STURDY YEOMAN

Sturdy Yeoman

Halt! (Everystudent shivers, throws his hands up.) Ho, you looked funny.

Everystudent

Funny? You surely have a perverted sense of humor. Who are you?

Sturdy Yeoman

I am Sturdy Yeoman. I was just giving a command to my company.

Everystudent

Why do you do all this drilling? It looks like a waste of time to me.

Sturdy Yeoman

Oh no, it isn't. A Sturdy Yeoman carries himself well, and is ambitious; he is obedient; he is prompt; he gets a command the first time it's given and obeys immediately. A Sturdy Yeoman has sincere respect for the flag and what it symbolizes. In order to be able to show his respect, he makes it his duty to know the rules regarding the emblem of our country.

Everystudent

I see.

Sturdy Yeoman

Well, we must finish our drill now. I'll try not to scare you again. Forward! March!

BURGOMISTRESS SPORTS

Everystudent

Pardon, but art thou not Burgomistress Sports?

Burgomistress Sports

I see you are afflicted with athletic fever.

Everystudent

What is the G. A. C.?

Burgomistress Sports

In the fall the G. A. C. has touch-ball, then volley ball, and then basketball. In the spring, baseball and track supplant the others. The girls in each grade practice diligently for a few weeks. A first team is chosen after some practice, which meets with the other five teams. Then a tournament is run off, until only champions are left.

Everystudent

Do the girls play just for the fun of it?

Burgomistress Sports

I'll say, but they are rewarded for their work.

Everystudent

Do they get many rewards?

Burgomistress Sports

Indeed. Some have even four or five. A girl may gain extra points in swimming, skating, stunts, and tennis. So you see any girl very much interested in sports is sure to be honored.

Everystudent

Thanks, exceedingly, Burg—

Burgomistress Sports

Epilogue

This moral play, EVERYSTUDENT SEEKS A TALISMAN, is ended.

Now Everystudent's high school days are o'er,

Thus closing the search for a talisman to cherish

So that it may do good in the real life that is to begin.

Many has Everystudent conversed with,

And among them no talisman, yet, has he found sufficient;

But sees that all traits together

Make the most precious talisman of them all.
